Berger Absent at Opening of House

CONGRESS BEGINS
BUSY SESSION TO
LAST UNTIL FALL

DOMESTIC AND INTERNA-TIONAL AFFAIRS OF FAR-REACHING EFFECT ON

TREATY FOREMOST

First Question Before Representatives Right of Socialist to Seat.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Congress met at noon today.

It had been expected that the house would be called upon to again pass on the question of seating Victor Berger, socialist of Wisconsin, who was reelected after the house had declared his seat vacant, but Berger was not present when the house met.

Representative Mann, republican, Illinois, former republican leader of the house, announced that he would oppose any action to withhold Berger's seat.

Chairman Dallinger, Massachusetts, of the elections committee which recommended Berger's election as a member at the special session, was ready today with a resolution which would deny Berger his seat on the ground that he has been "guilty of giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

Washington, Jan. 5.—Returning to work today after two weeks' holiday, congress faces one of the busiest sessions in history and a staggering array of problems awaiting solution. In addition to innumerable domestic matters, some of which will have a far-reaching effect on the industrial life of the country, there are international questions of far-reaching import that must be settled, including the treaties of peace with Germany and Austria.

Adjournment was not expected before fall, and the only break in the long session that would be overlooked for a brief recess that will be taken coincident with the holding of the national party conventions during the summer. But despite the mass of work ahead, there were indications aplenty that ample time would be found for partisan politics and no angle of the coming presidential election would be overlooked.

Political speeches in record breaking numbers were looked for.

Treaties to be considered. Besides the treaties with Germany and Austria, international problems to be considered at the resumed session include the proposed alliance with the United States, the settlement with Colombia, treaties with Poland and possibly Turkey, and numerous measures dealing with the war changed conditions of the American commercial and financial relations abroad.

Important domestic legislation awaiting action includes the railroad reorganization bill, the oil, coal, gas and phosphate land leasing bill, both of which now are in conference; army reorganization, shipping legislation, control of undesirable aliens, and scores of other subjects. Many investigations also have been arranged for by both the senate and house. Among them are inquiries into war problems, the Mexican situation, bolshevik activities, coal situation, federal trade commission, and the Ford-Norbury election.

Sedition Bill Taken Up.
This afternoon the senate planned to resume consideration of the sedition bill of Senator Sterling of Ohio, and to begin work on the question of seating Victor Berger, Milwaukee socialist, who was ousted last session, but re-elected at a special session held recently.

Leaders predicted prompt rejection of the re-election certificate.

When the first awards were announced, some weeks ago, Chairman Page of the senate committee asked Secretary Daniels for a report, which has been forwarded. The secretary supplemented this with a letter, published today, in which the theory of the awards was explained.

Young but Mighty

Just six years old is Pompia Giannino, Everett, Mass., but for his age he is what might be called well-developed, for he has attained the considerable weight of 214 pounds. Pompia was born of normal weight, but has gained rapidly ever since he came into the world. His mother, Mrs. Paulina Giannino, is extremely proud of the capacity of her infant prodigy, who eats more food in a day than she and her husband consume in the.

HAMLETS WRECKED BY SEVERE QUAKE IN MEXICAN STATES

Mexico City, Jan. 5.—Ten states were shaken by the earthquake which Saturday night destroyed at least two villages and caused many deaths in the state of Vera Cruz. These states were Mexico, Puebla, Vera Cruz, Oaxaca, Guerrero, Morelos, Jalisco, Tlaxcala, Hidalgo and Queretaro.

Reports indicate the center of the disturbance was in the neighborhood of Mount Orizaba, a volcano situated about 70 miles west of Vera Cruz. Teocelo, a village 35 miles northwest of the volcano, has been actually destroyed, and a similar fate befell Coahuila, a small hamlet in that neighborhood. Wires have been torn down by violence of the tremor but it is stated there were many casualties in both towns.

Many houses and churches in Jalisco, a city about 50 miles north-west of Vera Cruz, were damaged, while reports from Orizaba, a city 10 miles south of the volcano, state that several business blocks and churches near the center of the town were cracked. In the suburbs of Orizaba many persons are reported killed, and the people in the town are panicking. The shock came during a performance at the theater at Orizaba and panicking people leaped from the balconies to the pit in their efforts to escape. Many were injured.

Several shocks were experienced at Cordoba. Telegrams last night from the state of Vera Cruz stated that scores had perished.

REDS PREPARE TO FIGHT CHARGES OF DEPORTATION

SPECIAL GRAND JURY BEGINS TO UNTANGLE MASS OF EVIDENCE.

ELLIS ISLAND FULL

Search for Communists Continues Throughout Country.

New York, Jan. 5.—Gregory Weinstein, chief of staff for Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled ambassador to the United States of the Russian soviet republic, was arrested today by agents of the department of justice.

Weinstein, according to department of justice officials, is the most influential Russian communist next to Martens in America.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—More than 100 alleged radicals arrested in the New Year's raids by city and state authorities today were arraigned in criminal court, and a special grand jury began untangling the mass of evidence seized at headquarters and meeting places or obtained in the past five months. Agents of the federal department of justice spent the day preparing evidence for submission tomorrow at the hearings of 224 red aliens held for deportation as a result of the New Year's drive and the national crusade a day later.

William D. Haywood, secretary of the I. W. W., under sentence to a federal prison and for whom state officers have searched since New Year's day, announced in a morning paper that he would surrender today. The federal officers said they did not want to arrest Haywood, States Attorney Malone, who directed his arrest, made an announcement of the charge against Haywood.

Denies I. W. W. Connection. "Regardless of official statements to the contrary, I wish to say that there has been, and can be no connection between the communist party of America and the communist labor party and the Industrial Workers of the World," Haywood said. "The communist parties are political organizations. The I. W. W. is an industrial organization. Our methods are totally different."

He said that the communist manifesto regarding overthrow of the federal government never had been included in I. W. W. propaganda. The I. W. W. is an industrial organization. Our methods are totally different.

Skating Rink Started

People of Janesville get out your skates, have them ground; lay out your mittens, mufflers and warm coats. This city is now assured of a large skating rink. The "red ball" goes up within the week.

After agitation for a place upon which everyone might enjoy this thrilling outdoor sport, the city officials have jumped into the lead. They are now at work getting the "red house pond" in readiness. This will provide a sheet of ice approximately 400 feet long and 90 feet wide, or the length of two city blocks.

The pond has already been scraped free of snow by the street department's Chief Con Murphy of the fire department, with the aid of Thomas McKune, street commissioner. He hopes to have it open by the end of the week.

Just as soon as possible, if the interest proves high enough by the use of the pond, steps will be taken to have an ice carnival held with races, etc.

Work was begun this morning in scraping the snow off the pond. The pond is located at the foot of North Main street and follows along North Bluff to Schuyler street.

Subway Bargains Explained in Fair Price List Inquiry

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Investigation of the "fair price" list for clothing, issued by the Illinois Fair Price commission, has revealed a business deal whereby wholesale dealers, franchisees and other retailers have done a rushing business in cheaper grades of clothing.

Complete Lines in Subway. The big downtown stores have complete lines of clothing on sale in the subway sections at the prices fixed.

When merchants from many sections complained that it made them appear to be profiteers, and that they could not buy clothing at wholesale for the committee's retail price, they were explained.

The clothing on sale here was all purchased many months ago, none being bought within the past year. It was of two classes, cotton and wool mixtures and all wool shoddy.

When the price list placed a complete line of this class of clothing on sale, regardless of the wholesale cost, after the present supplies are exhausted, no more will be available, it is said.

Let's Break Bolshevik Front Along Dvina, Report

Copenhagen, Jan. 5.—Dispatches from Riga today declare that the bolshevik front along the Dvina. Numerous prisoners have been taken, together with much booty; it is asserted.

Two divisions of Letts, supported by the Baltic Landwehr, attacked the bolsheviks on a wide front, the dispatches declare. Heavy fighting followed, resulting in a penetration of the bolshevik positions on the first day.

The attack was pressed, the red lines pierced, and the bolsheviks retreating rapidly.

Miners Meet To Act Upon Strike Terms

Columbus, Jan. 5.—More than 2,000 delegates, representing the 400,000 soft coal miners of the United States, were assembled here today for the convention which is to discuss the settlement of the nation wide strike. Plans also are to be formulated for presenting to the commission of three men appointed by the president to consider all matters in dispute and report within 60 days.

John T. White, one of the members of the president's commission, was here today to attend the convention and to outline from the miners direct their attitude in the controversy before taking up with the scale committee in Washington next week hearings on the miners' demands.

Miners Not Satisfied
The miners are not satisfied with the 14 percent advance but are confident the commission, upon full investigation, will find they are entitled to more, before a wage contract is finally reached. They have gathered a mass of data, relative to the increased cost of living in mining districts, which will be presented to the commission.

The Columbus convention, it was pointed out by the officers, is not called for the purpose of ratifying or rejecting the action of the officers in accepting the proposal of the president. President Lewis, secretary of the United Mine Workers, takes the position that there was no other course to pursue. Not to have accepted would have meant defeat of the government, they point out.

U. S. Declines Part in Responsibilities of Allied Council
Paris, Jan. 5.—Hugh E. Wallace, American ambassador to France, asked the supreme council to preclude future decisions of the council with the formula "allied powers" which has been used in the past, according to Echo de Paris.

"This," says the newspaper, "means the determination of the United States not to participate, officially in decisions to be reached in Paris, Washington, which defines the responsibilities of the supreme council, continues to be represented at its sessions. How can Mr. Wallace's role be defined? It is not possible to make the term 'allied powers' as accepted term." Pleasure at the presence of an American representative on the council is expressed by the newspaper.

Nothing can be definitely concluded without the president's assent beforehand. So the council is supreme only in name. The secretary informed as to events until the American delegates resume their places on the council, is expressed by the newspaper.

It is inevitable that a dilemma will arise. The United States will be obliged to take responsibilities corresponding to her action or she will renounce the term 'allied powers' and the situation may be arranged by speedy ratification of the treaty according to the program of Sen. Lodge, followed by return of American to her rightful place in the settlement of European affairs.

Peace Now Hinges on Plebiscite Plan
Paris, Jan. 5.—The supreme council this morning finally decided on the wording of the plebiscite plan, which is to be submitted to the voters of the Rhineland. The plan is to be submitted to the voters of the Rhineland.

The signing of the protocol and the exchange of ratifications of the peace treaty now depend, it is stated, upon the answer of the Belgians to the question of the plebiscite plan. The answer will be given by the voters of the Rhineland.

VOLSTEAD ACT IS UPHELD IN DECISION BY U. S. JUSTICES

BEVERAGE CONTAINING ONE-HALF OF ONE PERCENT DECLARED INTOXICATING.

CASES DISMISSED
Proceedings Brought by Brewers are Disposed of by Judge.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The prohibition enforcement act, defining as intoxicating any beverage containing one half of one percent or more of alcohol was declared constitutional today by the supreme court in an opinion on which the court divided 5 to 4.

Proceedings brought by Jacob Ruppert, New York, to enjoin the government from prohibiting the sale of 2.75 percent beer were ordered dismissed.

Ruppert's case was brought under the wartime act. He alleged that 2.75 percent beer was non-intoxicating, but that the Volstead act by limiting the alcoholic contents prohibited the sale of beer manufactured under regulations prescribed under the Lever feed control act by President Wilson.

Beer Was Excluded.
Indictments brought against the Standard Brewery at Baltimore and the American Brewing company at New Orleans for manufacturing 2.75 percent beer before the wartime prohibition enforcement act became effective were ordered dismissed.

In the Baltimore and New Orleans cases, the brewers contend that the manufacture of malt or vinous liquors whether called beer or not, was not illegal unless the liquor was intoxicating. This contention however was denied by the government which argued that beer was prohibited without regard to its intoxicating qualities provided it contained one half of one percent or more of alcohol.

The government today filed in the supreme court its answer to the application of the state of Rhode Island for permission to institute original proceedings to test the constitutionality of the national prohibition constitutional amendment.

Asks Dismissal of Case.
At the same time Attorney General Thomas F. McCrean, New Jersey, asked dismissal of similar proceedings brought on behalf of the Retail Liquor Dealers association of New Jersey to enjoin state and federal authorities from enforcing the amendment in that state. A brief in support of the association's case also was filed by counsel for the organization.

No information was available at the White House as to the form the president's message would take. Secretary Tumulty declined to amplify the bare announcement that it would be an "important word" to the people.

Wide Prohibition Drive

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 5.—For the purpose of further organizing students in the universities and colleges of the United States for service among students and universities of foreign countries in the world movement against alcohol, the Intercollegiate Prohibition association held its biennial national convention and oratorical contest here today.

Several foreign speakers were on the program to present conditions in their own countries, among the countries represented being China, Philippines Islands and Argentina. Resolutions were presented for raising a fund of $1,000,000 with which to carry on the work.

Washington.—Development of a merchant marine with privately owned vessels was endorsed by the organizations in the United States Chamber of Commerce.

NORTHERN EXPLORER VISITS NEW LANDS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) Seattle (By Mail).—On his way out of the Arctic, Harold Noice, American explorer, is making his way on foot, with a dog team, overland from Victoria Land, which lies in the Arctic ocean, southeast to Port Nelson, in the Hudson's Bay country of Canada, according to letters received here by his mother. Noice is following, for a considerable distance, the route of the northwest passage.

Maps and charts of portions of Victoria Land were made this summer by Noice, he said. He did not state whether or not he ventured into the interior of Victoria Land, which, according to other explorers who have come south, has never been visited by men from the outside world.

Noice has been in the Arctic since 1915. He joined the expedition headed by Vilhjalmur Stefansson but when Stefansson turned south Noice remained in the north. He expects to arrive here some time next summer.

STARVING VIENNA IS SHIVERING IN BITTER COLD; NEEDS RELIEF

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.) London, Jan. 5.—Sir William Goode, the British director of relief, declares that Vienna is the worst of all the famine-stricken places that he visited on a recent tour through central Europe.

Although more than 2,400,000 tons of foodstuffs, at a cost of nearly $500,000,000, have been delivered in European relief since the signing of the armistice, by far the greatest share of which, he said, had been furnished by the United States, conditions are still so deplorable as almost to "beggars description."

"I felt upon leaving Vienna," said he, "as if I had spent 10 days in the cell of a condemned murderer who has given up all hope of a reprieve. I stayed at the best hotel but I saw no milk and no eggs. In the bitter cold of the hotel, once the gayest rendezvous in Europe, the visitors huddled together in the gloom of one light where there used to be 40. They were mere skeletons, and the representatives of the rich, Vienna's world-famous opera house is packed every afternoon. Why? Women and men go there in order to keep themselves warm and because they have no work to do."

"Do you wonder that the well-to-do people in Vienna are burning their furniture to light their stoves? Can you imagine how the poor live or try to live? It is not unusual to see the traffic in one of the main streets which leads to the cemetery, held up by hoar-frosts. Nine-tenths carry the bodies of children."

"In Vienna, in the palace of a former archduke, I saw thousands of children being fed. American relief food. Our own British relief missions, both in Austria and in Hungary, and a number of unofficial British workers are doing everything possible to stem the tide of distress."

In Serbia alone, Sir William declared, there are 500,000 fatherless children, most of whom are suffering from hunger and exposure.

"It seems to me that you cannot trifle with starvation and privation in Central Europe such as prevails today in Vienna without running the risk of a carnival of Bolshevism which would probably not be confined to this continent. I do not want to say so, but I am rather inclined to think that Bolshevism has been used too much as a bogey, but anyone with half an eye must realize that if, as a result of apparently legitimate grievances, forces of unrest are loosed in the heart of Europe, the whole world, the United States as well as ourselves, will be menaced."

Sir William declared that "first and foremost among the causes of the present situation in central Europe is the delay in making peace."

Proud Patriot of 1861 Recalls War Duties

(BY MRS. ABBIE HELMS.)

A unique personality, whose life came in touch with many stirring events of the Civil war, still lives in Janesville, and loves to talk of those days when she worked as cook in a hospital, made broth for the wounded soldiers, and cooked a Thanksgiving dinner for General McClellan and his staff.

"That was a grand meal," she said, speaking of the latter occasion. "I made all the good things going with it. And how those men did eat!"

Mrs. Michael Griffen, the navigator of many interesting anecdotes of Civil war times, lives in a cosy home at 338 Park avenue with her son, Joseph, Griffen, her husband, who has passed away some five years ago. The latter was a member of the 35th New York volunteers, the Irish Brigade, and was with the great battle of Gettysburg.

She said of it: "The greatest regiment which ever stepped foot on southern soil."

Maggie Sheehy, a rosy-cheeked Irish lass from county Limerick, Mrs. Griffen came to this country in 1861, going to Philadelphia and immediately securing employment at the Continental hotel in that place. She worked there for two years, and must have made a reputation for her cooking, for the manager asked her to go to Washington to cook for the wounded soldiers, who badly needed good food.

Stays Here Two Years

At this time there were 34 surgeons on the staff, headed by Dr. Hopkinson. Here Maggie remained for two years, supplementing her salary in the diet kitchen of the hospital by overseeing the preparation of the meals of the 75 orderlies, and occasionally making a cup of coffee and baking waffles for some overworked, homesick surgeon.

She well remembers the gorgeous parade at the time Gen. McClellan was mustered out and the two hands which played in front of the fort and barracks when he reviewed the army for the last time.

It was here she met Mr. Griffen. They were married, coming to Wisconsin in the early days of state. While living in a lumber camp in the northern part of the state she cooked for the 15 men of the camp, and lived 24 miles from the nearest settlement. It was here she shot a deer, swimming across the river. She recalled the plentiful supply of fish to be had by saying that the men used to go out after supper and catch a bushel basketful of trout.

Came Here 30 Years Ago

They came through Green Bay and Juneau by easy stages and settled in Janesville more than 30 years ago.

One of the greatest wishes of her life for the last few years was to belong to the "Women's Relief" super connected with the Grand Army. She is a patriotic personage and proudly devoted to everything pertaining to loyalty and honor of the nation. But for many years she was so lame that she was confined to her home, and unable to go to the room where the meetings were held. About five years ago, at the time when Mrs. C. P. Lester was president of the W. R. C., she obtained a special dispensation from the Grand Army corps to allow of her services of initiation for Mrs. Griffen to be held in her own home. To the great delight of that woman, who made a member of the corps in that way. The badge of the order is one of her proudest possessions, and she stipulates that it is to be pinned on her breast when prepared for her long sleep.

Prayed Daily for Yanks

During the last war she was most anxious for the success of the allies and especially for the soldiers of the U. S., for whom she breathed daily a prayer that they might be kept in safety and brought home victorious at the end of the war. Bright and cheerful and full of gratitude for all the mercies given her through a long and somewhat hard life, Mrs. Griffen is passing the sunset days, happy in the care and affection of her son and daughters, and enjoying to the full visits from old friends and neighbors.

Although nearing the ripe old age of 90, she still retains her faculties to the full, and enjoys recalling to mind incidents in those early days when she took part in those affairs which helped to mould the nation.

Neenah—Neenah is facing the loss of representation in the Wisconsin national guard which it has held for years. LYNCHINGS IN 1919.
Lynchings in 1919, according to Tuskegee Institute's statistics, numbered 82, or 18 more than in 1918. Georgia mobs took 21 lives, thus securing that state for another year in its position of leadership among the lynching communities. Its closest competitor was Arkansas, with 17.

Only 19 of the 82 put to death by mobs were accused of the crime against women which southern chivalry holds it is impossible to submit to the usual processes of justice. The other cases furnish not only condemnation of lynching, but emphasize the duty of constituted authorities everywhere to vindicate the majesty of law by protecting persons accused of crime and punishing those who interfere with legal procedure.

Twenty-seven of the persons lynched last year were accused of homicide; 20 of the cases being described as murder. It would seem that such offenders might confidently be left to the courts to deal with, especially where the accused were negroes in southern states. If they were not condemned to death and executed it would be simply because their innocence was established.

What makes lynching so horrible, though, is that the savagery of blood lust is so easily aroused that lives are taken for almost no crimes at all. A man found under a bed was lynched, so was the one who made boastful remarks. An improper letter was written and two men were lynched for it. Mobs took the lives of others for equally trifling offenses. That race hatred was responsible in a great majority of the cases is deducible from the fact that all but seven victims of Judge Lynch were black, and every one of the seven whites was accused of murder. It is a sickening record that was made in 1919 in a country that is supposed to be governed by law.

GOOD NEWS FROM SHIPBUILDERS.
It is a cheering message that comes from the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders' association. The impetus given by the war toward restoring America to its rightful place on the sea continues, despite completion or cancellation of government contracts. "Work for private accounts," it is declared, "is replacing that which was being done for the shipping board and although a number of orders for American industries have been completed or withdrawn during the past few weeks, the shipyards today are building over a quarter of a million gross tons more than they were a month ago and nearly half a million tons more than in October."

Sentimentally and practically this is one of the most significant announcements of the day. It refers us to the period in our earlier history when America was a maritime leader and to the period just before the war when we were paying $350,000,000 a year to foreign vessels. How we lost the leadership on the sea is now only a matter of historic interest; it is enough that it is attributed to our extraordinary interest for years in our domestic trade, to the change from wood to iron in the construction of vessels and to the Civil war. But with the increasing interest in foreign trade in the last two decades and the pain and humiliation at seeing our "balance of trade" cut down to such an extent by payments to foreign carriers it was inevitable that without the war something would have been done to remedy our maritime situation.

However, the impetus given by the war cannot be minimized, and here we are at last with a merchant marine at hand and building that will be in keeping with the country's commercial progress.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS GAIN.

The marks set by both exports and imports in November were the second highest in the history of American foreign trade, according to an announcement made today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce.

The value of exports for the month was $741,000,000 as compared with $632,000,000 for October, and $522,000,000 for November of the previous year. For the 11 months ended with November, the total value of exports was $7,242,000,000, against $5,583,000,000 for the corresponding period of 1918.

Imports in November amounted to $429,000,000, against $402,000,000 in October of this year, and $251,000,000 in November of last year. For the 11 months of this year, imports were $3,528,000,000, compared with $2,820,000,000 in the first 11 months of last year. If the foreign trade continues in December at the same rate as in November, the imports for the calendar year will approach $4,000,000,000 in value and the exports $5,000,000,000.

The excess of exports, in November amounted to $312,000,000 and for the 11 months to $3,714,000,000, nearly $1,000,000,000 more than in the 11 months of 1918.

APPROPRIATION NOT USED.

Announcement by Julius H. Barnes, United States wheat director, that no part of the $1,000,000,000 appropriated by congress to maintain the guaranteed price of wheat has been used and moreover, that the corporation has been able to make a profit from selling wheat at prices higher than that paid for it, may be taken as an indication that there is no immediate prospect of wheat declining materially. When the appropriation was made it was thought possible that this large sum might be paid out to farmers to balance the RIGHTS.

The meanest man I ever saw
Know all there is about a law.
He never stepped an inch beyond
The legal phrasing of his bond.
He wouldn't lie and wouldn't cheat.
But children dodged him on the street.
And neighbors had no love for him.
Because his ways were stern and grim;
He wanted everything his legal right.
If he could say 'twas his by right.

I've noticed that the meanest fights
Begin with men who want their rights.
Even as Shylock, they pursue
The final dollar that is due.
And though they pay the debts they owe,
No mercy to their friends they show.
The law proclaims them honest men.
But in the verdict rendered then.
Throughout the script you cannot find
That it is written, they are kind.

All men have rights, and yet it seems
The happiest joys and sweetest dreams
Are always shared by those who now
Forego their rights for other men.
Men who their petty claims release
For friendship or the sake of peace,
And would not make another bleed
Although the law allowed the deed.
Know more about the world's delights
Than they who coldly want their rights.

Give nie the man who'll not press
The neighbor who is in distress.
The man of principle who gives
Some thought to how his brother lives
And chooses rather to be just
With kindness than in ways exact.

Forgets his claim or wipes it out.
He shall be richer in the end
For having been to all a friend.

difference between the market price and the guarantee. With the diminished acreage and less promising prospect in the home seeding it is not reasonable to expect wheat to command a much less price next year, unless the world crop should operate to lower the market. The high price of bread seems likely to continue for an indefinite period, or until there is a turn in price direction, not only in wheat but in all other commodities that enter directly into the life of the people.

WHY SHOULDN'T THEY BE?

An American newspaper correspondent in Mexico has been struck by the fact that the residents of San Luis Potosi are tired of wars and fighting and long to return to their farming—which he says they are doing. Mexican farmers have been tired of war for a long time but have had no way to escape it and little to say whether life should be one guerrilla battle after another or one crop after another.

Wanted; an Issue
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Among the high leaders of the two great parties which have fought all our major political battles since the Civil war there exists a feeling of bewilderment. They find themselves in the midst of another presidential campaign with many an issue between them. They are about to fight and to fight to the bitter return of the victor. But what are they going to fight about? Some people think there is plenty to fight about. Labor, for example, wants government ownership of railroads, and it wants the government to reclaim lands and make farms. There are several other things it will champion. Labor's demands will not lack something to fight about. And the farmers think there are issues. They also favor more government ownership and control, especially the meat packers and storage interests. They are making their demands more emphatic and articulate every day. And the ultimate consumer believes that the high cost of living is worth more specific attention than it has yet received. Any leader who would run on a platform to make the dollar buy as much as 75 cents bought before the war could get a certain amount of backing.

Politicians know that these issues are considered issues by a mere amateur in the great game of politics. Politicians know better. These things are not issues in the partisan political sense; they are known, instead, as dynamic, and they are labeled "keep out!" Of course, each of the great party platforms will contain a few sonorous phrases on labor, promising it equity, justice, and a few other things like that. And each of them will refer gracefully to the rural population and promise to solve its great problems without telling how. It will reduce the high cost of living, but neither of them will offer a specific mustard plaster for that annoying ailment. And both of them, inevitably, will say just about the same things. No, there is no issue here—nothing that can be said or done or fought in the newspapers and shouted from the stump. What we need is something wholly irrelevant and unimportant about which we may furiously disagree.

Ask any republican highly placed politically and he will tell you that this campaign is to be made on administrative economy, on merit, on law and order. Walk around the corner and buttonhole an equally highly placed democrat and he will tell you that the great issue is administrative economy, to be the watchword of the next campaign. League is not issue. If the league of nations is mentioned to a good republican he will hasten to assure you that the league of nations and America's participation in it are not issues. A democrat will give you the same assurance. "To be sure, representatives of the two parties are fighting each other tooth and nail on this issue, but when it is suggested that it be thrust into the campaign, all hands are raised in quieting admission. And the old issues of yesterday, the tariff, expansion, retention of the Philippines, the future of the Panama canal, the tariff on sugar, the old-fashioned issues are gone. So the leaders are beating the bush and are saying one to the other, "We've got a fight, but what the dickens are we gonna fight about?" And from this situation grows the greatest political novelty of the time. A committee of 60 carefully selected bushwhackers to go forth in the highways and byways in search of an issue. The republican central committee has decided upon such a committee. Its personnel will be announced in two or three days. Good men, tried and true, patriots of national reputation, are to be selected. Between now and June they are to work diligently. When convention time comes they are to have round squabbling to fight about.

Republicans Are Serious.
The republican national committee takes this campaign seriously. Its committee is to be made up of the best material in the party. It will immediately resolve itself into subcommittees. These will be subcommittees to find out what the farmers want, one to learn what the women voters most desire, one to study the labor situation, and one to work on the labor plank in just the right key, one on industry, one on immigration. The subcommittees have not yet been selected, but undoubtedly a special study will be made of every issue of importance. These subcommittees will tour the country and hold hearings. They will listen to everybody everywhere. They will arrive at conclusions. They will have the facts when the convention meets. This is a much more pretentious scheme than the usual method of writing platforms. In the past, platforms have been written by committees on resolutions of the convention. These committees have been appointed after the conventions have met, have worked feverishly night and day, have been pulled this way and hauled that, have attempted to hear various groups of various interests, have patched up platforms that have had the faults that might be expected of documents so prepared. The novel republican plan of this year will have all the problems thrashed out before the convention meets. The resolutions committee will be appointed as usual. It will lock itself in and take up one policy after another. The hearings on that policy will have been already held. The subcommittee in question will have reached a conclusion—will have written a plank all through which properly it will have reached a conclusion. It will recommend to the committee on resolutions. It will be well digested and to the point. It is held in a platform so evolved that will have its foundation well laid, its planks so efficiently spiked down that it will be a firmer structure to bear the weight of a candidate than those that have gone before.

Star Has Been in Eclipse.
In thus taking thought in advance, in taking infinite care in the preparation of its platform, the republican party is looking hopefully to the future. For properly its star has been in eclipse. Its ways, have been in the valley of sorrow. By a perversion of fortune the time of its discontent, the democratic time of the era of greatest opportunity, and it has missed the glory that it believes would have come to it had it taken its authority at the time of the great war. The republicans are further along in platform making than are the democrats. The democratic national committee will hold its big meeting in Washington January 8, the quadrennial Jackson Day dinner will precede the meeting of the committee. The time and place of the convention will be determined. Note will be taken of the preparations being made by the republicans in the matter of platform writing. Having been warned in advance of the serious intentions of their opponents, the democrats may be expected to put their best platform writers to scratching their heads contemplatively long before the great day arrives. They, too, are looking for a perfectly satisfactory issue.

Eau Claire.—Lester Loken, aged 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Loken, is minus an eye as a result of accident. He is picking the end of a pair of scissors into the optic. This happened eight weeks ago. Now to save the unimpaired eye it has been found necessary to take the other eye. He was warned by his parents not to use the scissors the little fellow did not mention the injury on the evening he occurred and the next day remained in bed without letting them know what ailed him, and as a result of the long delay in securing medical attention, infection set in, resulting in the loss of the eye. He is not yet out of danger of losing the other.

The contract contains a provision that the water shall be developed within five years. A transmission line will be built from Spooner to Cumberland next spring.

German Field Marshal Is Paid Tribute by Joffe

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Geneva, Sunday, Jan. 4.—A tribute to Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, commander of the right wing of the German army in its advance on Paris in 1918, has been paid by Marshal Joffe, chief of the French armies in the first titanic struggle of the war, who is visiting the little town of Alge.

Historical tactics in the retreat from the Marne, which did not stem the tide of defeat, saved the German right wing from complete disaster, he said. "The enemy was able to strike with only small losses and it was Von Kluck who prevented an overwhelming catastrophe."

Creeds Clash While Coal Remains on Island

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Cardiff, Wales.—(By Mail)—Two divergent creeds, from the opposite extremes of the mining world, which have just been published, are attracting considerable comment. Henry Radcliffe, one of the Cardiff millionaires, said:

"God has placed coal in this island for our use, and we are out to get it. Is there any harm in getting a market price for an article, even if it is 15 per ton?"

"This viewpoint has been even challenged by the miners' leaders. Henry Radcliffe, labor member of parliament, counters with the following:

"Against this creed of Radcliffe's I put the creed of the miners, which is this, God has placed coal in this island for the benefit of the nation; and we are out to get it for the good of all."

OVERHEATED FURNACE CAUSES $500 FIRE AT RUGER AVENUE HOME

An over-heated furnace is believed to have been the cause of a basement blaze at the home of Mrs. William Lamb, 1218 Ruger avenue, early yesterday afternoon. The damage is estimated at $500.

The fire threatened to develop into a repetition of the disastrous blaze at the Jeffries home Saturday morning but this time the daymen were able to confine the major portion of it to the basement.

Again Chief Murphy said his men were handicapped by a frozen water hydrant. At efforts to open the hydrant at the corner of Ruger avenue and South Ringold street failed.

Firemen were successful in connecting up with the hydrant at the corner of Forest Park boulevard and Ruger avenue but before the steam could be played on the blaze, one of the two nozzles on the hydrant burst, reducing the pressure.

When the department arrived, at 1:30 o'clock, the fire had spread along the ceiling in the basement above the furnace and was eating its way through the floor. The added use of water in connection with the hydrant at Jefferson and Ruger avenues.

This stream was used effectively in the basement but when it was seen the blaze was communicating to the kitchen, the chief ordered more water, sounding the alarm of a "big fire" calling for extra help and top pressure. Fruitless attempts to open the next two hydrants were followed by the successful connection with the hydrant at North Ringold and Ruger avenue.

An inspection was made this morning of the chimney fire in the basement. It was not necessary to use the second stream.

Chief Murphy is sure that an over-heated furnace caused the blaze as there was no rubbish whatever in the basement.

Two Other Alarms
The department was called out at 1:10 o'clock this morning when a fire in the basement of a house coming from the chimney in the West Side bowling alley. There was no damage.

An inspection was also made this morning of a chimney fire in the Jeffries building on West Milwaukee street occupied by T. P. Burns store. The fire burned itself out without causing any damage.

When smoke filled her house at 12 South Academy street, Mrs. Van De Walker called the department Saturday afternoon believing a basement blaze was in progress. An investigation by firemen disclosed a fire had been started in a stove connected with a chimney which had not been used for years.

A large piece of tin on the chimney had been broken by four bricks prevented the smoke from reaching the outside.

Bartering Suggested to Remedy Money Panic

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Coblenz (By Mail).—Fluctuations in the value of the mark have led to a suggestion that business men report that it is virtually impossible for them to carry on transactions with the mark. It is no longer a matter of business but simply one of gambling on the exchange.

One suggestion being considered by bankers is that goods be bought and sold by barter, thereby eliminating the exchange fluctuation. The present low value of the mark has placed an effective embargo on capital attempting to escape taxation by fleeing the country. It has also automatically cut off imports of goods absolutely indispensable. Foreign buyers, taking advantage of the favorable rate of exchange, have recently placed large orders with German factory owners.

Housing Shortage Hits West Virginia Cities

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Charleston, W. Va. (By Mail).—Housing conditions in and around this city have become so acute that a corporation with a capital of $400,000 has been formed by the Chambers of Commerce of Charleston, South Charleston, and St. Albans to provide homes for 1,500 additional people in the city.

These men will be employed in the government ordnance factory, now under course of construction, and will be given the benefit of shelter in the early spring. Every house in the three communities is now occupied.

The announced purpose of the company to buy materials in large quantities and to let contracts for houses in such numbers as to bring the cost to the minimum in order that they may be sold at reasonable prices.

RADICALS TO FIGHT DEPORTATION CHARGE

partisan justice agents over the country still were seeking out today members of the communist and communist labor organizations who had been indicted against deportation.

Apparently New York and Chicago were the chief centers of activity. Several hundred warrants were yet to be served.

Nearly 3,000 of those arrested have been held for deportation proceedings and because of the congestion now at Ellis island all of them cannot be concentrated there.

Congress had before it today the request of Attorney General Palmer that it take prompt action on a bill proposed by him several months ago and designed to enable the government to deport radicals.

Radicals taken in the government raids on communist and communist labor parties have all machinery set for fighting the new law. In view of this information, they are engaged in radical activities. There is no federal law under which they can be deported.

Mr. Garvan said that while the government is making proofs of membership in either organization to be sufficient basis for deportation, there must be considered the likelihood that many of these persons might attempt to show they renounce their affiliations prior to the government's declaration that the entire alien membership of the communist and communist labor parties were deportable subjects.

Habes corpus proceedings will be employed in the majority of the cases, Mr. Garvan believed.

Privileges accorded the radicals under present laws with respect to bail also complicates the department's work, officials said. Persons held on such charges as have been held against those taken into custody in these raids may gain freedom on $1,000 bond.

Ellis Island Crowded.
New York, Jan. 5.—Continuation of the raids on communists was expected here today. About six hundred radicals are held in the island. At least 18 local branches of the communist and communist labor parties which have not been raided are expected to be in existence in Greater New York.

A "Red" concentration camp near here has been urged by local officials because of the crowded conditions at Ellis Island. It was said a request would soon be made to Secretary Baker that he designate either Camp Leavenworth or Camp Merritt to house the prisoners.

RUSSELL GARAGE TO BE ENLARGED

When finished the structure will occupy 65 feet of the block and will be a two-story building, with a private office, service station, and have accommodations for 150 cars.

Two years ago the Russell company started to erect an up-to-date brick structure at the rear of its old building. The new addition will be erected upon the last lot occupied by the wooden garage. The front will be of glazed brick and 11 feet wider than the present wooden building. Charles E. Frazer, this city, are the architects.

ONE WEEK REMAINS FOR ENLISTMENTS

Considerable interest is being manifested by the guardsmen in the proposed bill of the senate military affairs subcommittee by which youths 17 years of age will be given a choice of taking four months compulsory military training or enlisting in the national guard. In commenting upon the bill, Capt. Claude W. Feagin, commander of the Janesville company, said today that if it is enacted, it probably will give this city at least one additional company.

government in its reply filed last Saturday that the supreme court had no jurisdiction in the New Jersey case and argued that the state could not properly be made a party in an original action in the supreme court instituted by a citizen of that state. It also said New Jersey statutes barred a citizen from bringing legal proceedings against the state without its consent.

Under an agreement of counsel arguments on the Rhode Island and New Jersey cases will not be heard until next Monday.

Prohibition Amendment Different
In the brief filed in support of the application in the New Jersey case, it was contended that the supreme court had jurisdiction and that the prohibition amendment was different from other constitutional amendments in that it assumes to regulate the private life of citizens.

If the procedure of enactment was valid, the brief asserted, it follows that a bare two-thirds of a bare majority of the state legislature can constitute the constitution which they may desire.

"In other words," it continued, "a group of public officials which is not a majority may be less than 250 and the nominations may be less than 1400 hold in their hands the constitution of the United States and the lives of 110,000,000 of people. Their power, if the 'eighteenth amendment' has been adopted, is absolute and arbitrary beyond that of any group of men known to history."

Solicitor General King in his brief asserted that the future plan regarding the cost of dry goods and other wearing apparel.

"Kirby," I said sternly, but quietly, stepping directly across toward him. "You are a prisoner, and unless you hold your tongue, otherwise you will never see me at the stake, because I shall blow your brains out where you lie."

"And why not?" It will rid the girl of you, and that means something to me—and her. Just try me, and see. He must have seen the grim meaning in my face, for he fell back against the log, muttering incoherently, his dark eyes wells of hate, his face a picture of malignancy, but his hands were the turning coward in him, unable to face my threat. I left him and stooped above her.

"We shall be busy presently; the delay cannot be avoided. I am afraid that fellow may succeed somehow in doing us harm. He is crazed enough to attempt anything. May I trust you to guard him?"

"Yes, he will make no movement I shall not see. Tell me: do you believe there is hope?"

"God knows. We shall do our best. If the worst comes—what?"

"Do not fear for me; do not let any memory of me in your mind. I am your work," she said quietly. "I know what you mean and pledge you I shall never fall into his hands. It cannot be, for I am sure I could not Steven, for you I love you."

My eager hands were upon hers, my eyes greedily reading the message revealed so far. The girl's thoughts, she only was in—alone.

"They're a cousin, Cap," yelled Kennedy and his rifle cracked. "By God, they're here!"

With one swift spring I was back at my deserted post and firing. Never before had I been in an Indian battle, but they had told me at Acmstrong that the Sacs were fighting men. I knew it now. This was to be no play at war, but a grim, relentless struggle.

They came on muskets, rushing recklessly forward across the open space, pressing up on each other in headlong desire to first killing like fiends, guns belching in air or spitting fire, animated by but one purpose—the battering of a way into that cabin.

I know not who led them that night, but I saw a mass of half-naked bodies bounding toward me, long hair streaming, copper faces aglow, weapons glittering in the light.

I saw more the meaning of that fierce rush; the instrument of destruction they brought with them. It

Had Little Hope Of Getting Well

"It has been almost a year since I had the 'flu' and I have just gotten over the effects of it," said Mrs. Paul Potrykus of 377 Rogers Street, Milwaukee, in an interview with a special Tanlac representative, recently.

In relating her experience with Tanlac, Mrs. Potrykus also stated that she had gained twenty-six pounds in weight in a little more than two months time. Her complete statement follows:

"After getting up from the 'flu' I was almost a skeleton and just a complete nervous and physical wreck. My stomach was in such an awful condition that I could not eat anything without suffering agony. If I ventured to eat anything the least bit heavy—potatoes, for instance—such terrible pains would come in my stomach that I would turn nearly blind and almost faint. This state would also get up around my heart and cause such pains and pressure that I could hardly breathe. After these sick spells my head would ache and hurt so bad I could not bear to comb my hair. If I attempted a little work about the house I would get so nervous, weak and dizzy, that I would simply have to give up, and it was really a burden for me to look after my three little children. I could not get a good nap of sleep more than once in two or three weeks. Many a day I spent most of the time in bed and no kind of medicine seemed to do me any good. In fact, I kept getting weaker and was so despondent that I had little hope of getting well."

"But Tanlac has relieved me of all that misery and I am now feeling just as strong and well as I ever did in my life. There is no kind of food but what I can eat without the least trouble from it and my appetite is so good that I can hardly satisfy it. When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed one hundred and sixteen pounds, but I now weigh one hundred and forty-two, making an actual gain of twenty-six pounds, and am able to do all my work 'house' cleaning and everything, with ease. My complexion was yellow before I took Tanlac, but now the color has come back to my cheeks and my friends are talking about how healthy I look. I can never pay the debt of gratitude I owe Tanlac and words can't express my appreciation for what it has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Janesville by McCue and Buss and by leading druggists in every town.

Grip, Influenza

Hamlin's Wizard Oil a Soluble, Antiseptic Preventive

During Influenza epidemics, spray the nose and throat several times a day with one part Wizard Oil and two parts water, using an atomizer. If you haven't an atomizer, gargle the throat and sniff the mixture up the nose. This treatment acts up an antiseptic wall of defense against "flu" germs.

Chest colds and sore throat lead to grip. Stop them at once with Wizard Oil before they can develop into dangerous influenza.

Get it from druggists for 30c. If not satisfied, return the bottle and get your money back.

Ever constipated or have sick headache? Just try Wizard Liver Whips, pleasant little pink pills, 30c at druggists. Guaranteed.

Don't Suffer With Neuralgia

Use Soothing Musteroile

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musteroile on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musteroile is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musteroile for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, colds, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Mix-up in Wheat Prices Retards Grain Movement

Winnipeg, Man.—(By Mail)—Although the embargo on shipments of wheat to the United States has been lifted since the middle of December, there has only been a slight movement of grain in that direction, according to the wheat export board.

It is understood that a mix-up regarding wheat prices in which western grain men may lose thousands of dollars, has held up any movement of wheat to America. It is claimed that many traders bought wheat options at from $2.30 to $2.45 and had to pay the difference between that figure and the $2.15 ultimately established by the wheat board to close out their contracts. The government is being urged to assist in compensating these traders.

THE WISHING PLANE

BY W. WILLIS WINTER

Ladydear was telling Jack and Jane about the little Turkish babies when we had to stop our story yesterday. She had just reached the point where the papa is presented with the baby.

"When the baby is carried into its papa for the 'first time,' went on Ladydear, 'what do you suppose he does?' Well, he stoops down with his mouth close to baby's ear and hollers the baby's name three times as loud as he can."

"It must scare the baby half to death, for even bigger children like you have reason to be scared when someone shouts close to you when you don't know they are any place about."

"Then, after that ceremony is over, mother invites all the women nearby to come in to see the baby. But they don't coddle and kiss it and say nice things about it, the way mothers and friends do back home in Make Believe town. The Turkish women call it many kinds of bad names and say mean, ugly things about it. You'd think, if you could hear and understand them, that they were angry, or displeased at least. But they aren't. This is simply another belief they have. The rough language and mean words are supposed to drive away the evil spirits if they are still lingering about."

"Now, you mustn't think, from these stories, that the Turks do not love their children. On the contrary, these people are noted for their love for the little ones. When one of the babies is taken very sick the entire family neglects house work, business and games and everything to visit the baby. Oftentimes mothers and fathers will adopt other children to bring them up with their own, and these adopted children share in whatever fortune the old folks leave."

"Although Turkish women are not allowed to visit with strange men or be seen with them any place, the little girls can play with the boys until they are about twelve years old and play games just like other girls in other lands. But after they are twelve the girls must wear veils and conduct themselves in the same dignified way that their mothers do."

"Well, the same games practically, that little folks in America play. The Turkish boys spin tops, fly kites and play marbles. The girls join with them in games of hopscotch, mumble-peg and other sports."

"The boys spin tops a bit different than do the American boys. The little Mohammedans spin the top first with the thumb and finger, with a string and then keep it spinning by whipping it with a string made into a whip."

"When they fly kites they tie pieces of wood onto the tails and try to hook these pieces into the other kite strings and bring the other kites down."

"Now, I'm afraid we'll have to stop again until tomorrow."
